TOWNSHIP OF WASHINGTON

First-graders at George Elementary School, which is part of the Westwood Regional School District, recently had an in-school visit from Let's Bloom Together, a company that provides children's gardening classes, programs and events.

The team from Let's Bloom Together taught the students about composting and helped them create compost containers. The students had a blast digging out the worms and filling their composts with vegetation. Made possible with the help of several parents in the school community, the visit was part of George School's celebration of Earth Day.
